Looking

IN THE MIRROR

Life can feel out of control, like a series of emergencies popping out of nowhere. Most people wait for impact to notice that something isn't working. But we all have a choice. The choice is simple, we can choose to sit and wait for the circumstances to change or major impact to force us to pivot, or we can take action now. Looking in the mirror, do you see someone who has settled for safe, supporting role in their life, or do you see someone who is living their true passion and purpose?
